Swift Capital

Launched in 2007, Swift Capital offers short-term working capital products that increase convenience, transparency, and value to millions of small businesses whose borrowing needs are not being met by their banks. Through the use of data aggregation and advanced scoring methodologies, Swift Capital is able to instantly evaluate the financial health of small businesses, allowing them to access funding as fast as one hour. Swift's proprietary scoring models do not rely on personal credit (FICO) scores, allowing Swift to serve millions of businesses typically unable to qualify for traditional bank financing. Swift Capital is financed by some of the nation's leading financial investors, including Sutter Hill Ventures and Silicon Valley Bank.
